CITY AND COUNTY ATTORNEYS IN

Poll Tax Case Leads to Tilt Between Brown and Bridgers.

County attorney W. W. Bridgers and assistant city attorney Volney Brown, who is assisting attorney in prosecuting the charge the election laws, engaged in a sharp clash of words Friday afternoon in the court of justice E. B. McClintock, and it was only when ordered to cease the argument by justice McClintock that the two attorneys stopped.

The trouble arose when Brown re quested the court to dismiss the formal complaint against Hennessey, that an investigation could be held.

Bridgers is Peered.

At this stage of the proceedings county attorney Bridgers rose and said

"I do not know whether I want that when I wanted to take this proceeding, you people did not want to do it. you asked me, before you filed this complaint. I would have told you that you could not have Mr. Hennessey ar-rested and then compel him to testify. I did not want to take this action.

not want to do my duty in this matter, you are not telling the truth. When you or any other man says that I am not doing my duty you are not telling the truth." Then justice McClintock called halt.

The action of Mr. Brown, to which county attorney Bridgers referred, was the filling of a complaint against Eugene Hennessey, on the charge of violation of the election laws. The original intention of the prosecution was to held an investigation in regard to the issuance of the slieged poll tax receipts, for which no tax had ever been paid, by the parties to whom they had been issued, but just before the time set for the hearing to take place, Brown filed a complaint for J. After quoting from several statutes on the matter, Burges said: "The fact of asking a man to testify in his own case where he is the defendant, wheth er for or against himself, where the testimony may incriminate him on any charge, has never been heard of in this state before. You might as well try a man for murder or burglary and insist that he testify against himself." Hennessey is Silent.

Brown once more returned to his line of questioning, to which Hennessey refused to answer. Again Brown asked the court to dismiss the case, and it was at that point that for the sec-ond time Bridgers refused to allow the case to be dismissed and the words be-

County attorney W. W. Bridgers said Saturday morning, in regard to the action he intended taking in the examination of Hennessy, Monday: "I have decided to hold an examination trial and will have the case passed to the grand jury. After looking into the matter I have decided not to have the case dismissed but to go ahead with the examination."

According to railroad men the strike may take on just a demand for higher wages instead of the removal of the American employes as was at first the issue. Many of the Mexican employes do not want the removal of the American employes by this means, as they work side by side on many of the trains and say they are well satisfied to have the Americans working on the road with them.

The meeting of the Mexican employes, which has been going on in Chihuahua city for the last week, is expected to be concluded Saturday. and the demands of the employes will probably be made next week. American employes will probably not be parties to the strike as their wages are about the same as paid on the American roads.
